Jens Ludwig

Jens Ludwig is the Edwin A. and Betty L. Bergman Distinguished Service Professor at the University of Chicago and Pritzker director of the University of Chicago Crime Lab, which he helped found 15 years ago to work closely with the public sector to help solve social problems. He is the co-author with Philip J. Cook of Gun Violence: The Real Costs (Oxford University Press, 2000), and is completing a book manuscript about how new findings from behavioral science give us a radically different understanding of the nature of the gun violence problem. His research has been published in leading peer-reviewed scientific journals such as Science, New England Journal of Medicine, Journal of the American Medical Association, American Economic Review and Quarterly Journal of Economics, as well as national news outlets like the New York Times, Washington Post, Wall Street Journal and NPR. He is an elected member of the National Academy of Medicine of the National Academies of Science.
